THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S IMPORTANT SPEECH.

THE PEACE OF THE PACIFIC.

Invitation to the United States.

(Reuter's Service.) London, June 20.

Mr. Lloyd George, in his speech at the Imperial Conference, said that one of the most urgent and important of our foreign questions was the relations of the Empire with the United States and Japan. There was no quarter of the world where we more greatly desired to maintain peace and fairplay with all nations and to avoid competition in armaments than in the Pacific and Far East. The Anglo-Japanese Alliance had been a valuable factor in that direction. Japan had been a faithful ally, rendering us valuable assistance in our critical need. The British Empire would not easily forget that Japanese warships escorted the transports bringing Australian and New Zealand forces to Europe when German cruisers were still in the Indian and Pacific oceans. "We desire to preserve a well-tryed friendship which has stood us both in good stead and apply it to the solution of all questions in the Far East where Japan has special interests, and where ourselves, like the United States, desire equal opportunities and an open door. Not the least of these questions is the future of China, which looks to us and the United States for sympathetic treatment and fairplay. No greater calamity could overtake the world than a further accentuation of the world's divisions upon racial lines. The British Empire has done a signal service to humanity in bridging these divisions in the past. The loyalty of the King Emperor's Asiatic peoples is the proof. To depart from that policy or fail in that duty would not merely increase the dangers of international war but it would divide the British Empire against itself. Our foreign policy can never range itself upon the differences of race and civilisation between the East and the West. It would be fatal to the Empire. We look confidently to the Government and people of the United States for sympathy and understanding in this respect. Friendly co-operation with the United States is for us a cardinal principle, dictated equally by instinct, reason and common sense. We desire to work with the great Republic everywhere in the world and, like it, we want stability and peace based on liberty and justice. We desire to avoid the growth of armaments in the Pacific as elsewhere and we rejoice that American opinion is at present so earnest in that direction. We are ready to discuss with American statesmen any proposal for the limitation of armaments on their part and we undertake that no such overtures will find a lack of willingness on our part to meet them. Australia, New Zealand—indeed the whole Empire—is built on seapower which is necessarily the basis of the Empire's existence. We must, therefore, look to the measures that our security requires; we aim at nothing more and cannot possibly be content with less.

Mr. Lloyd George began his speech by dwelling on the post-war overstrain and exhaustion of nations, producing feverish restlessness and disinclination for steady work on the part of Labour. But the distress in Britain was not so bad as after the Napoleonic wars. Indeed, despite great unemployment and much labour unrest there was no actual privation. This was largely attributable to the self-sacrifices of the well-to-do. He was confident that the world was slowly settling down to face realities. An encouraging fact in the international situation was the increasing impatience with those seeking to keep the world in a state of turmoil and tension. Two of the most troublesome problems of peace had been settled, including the disarmament of Germany, though irregular formations in Bavaria were still giving trouble. He believed that that difficulty would shortly be overcome. The other problem, that of reparations, had baffled all financial experts for two years, but an expedient had now been devised and, it seems, had given satisfaction to the moderate and practical men of Europe. So far as we had been able to gather that also was the view of the Dominions which were directly concerned therein. He was most hopeful as regards the two remaining difficulties—the fixation of the boundaries of Poland and making peace with Turkey. Until these had been settled it cannot be said that peace had been established. The first essential of peace and reconstruction was that we should stand by the Treaties. The nations of the world realised their interdependence more than ever and the League of Nations stood as a witness of such realisation. There might have to be relaxations of treaties here and there, following the discovery of conditions, with the consent of all parties but treaties must stand where such consent was not forthcoming.

Mr. Lloyd George then referred to the relations between the Empire, the United States and Japan the text of which is given above. He continued that he did not propose to deal in detail with the agenda of the Conference, remarking, "We have no cut and dried agenda and we will discuss that amongst ourselves." He said that the British Empire was progressing very satisfactorily from the constitutional standpoint and otherwise. He mentioned among the post-war changes, Canada's decision to have her own Minister at Washington. This was a most important development, in which we willingly co-operated.

Mr. Lloyd George concluded by emphasising that the British Dominions and the Indian Empire had played, probably, a greater part in the war for freedom than any nation, except perhaps the very greatest Powers. "By our mutual exertions, constituting a testimony to British institutions which no other Empire in history can approach or emulate, and by a recognition of their achievements, the British Dominions had been accepted fully into the comity of nations by the whole world. They had achieved a full national status, standing beside the United Kingdom as equal partners in the dignities and responsibilities of the British Commonwealth. If there are means whereby that status can be rendered even clearer to their own communities and the world, we will be glad to have them submitted to the conference. India's achievements were also very great and she had proved her right to a new status in our councils."

Said to be Bearing Fruit.

Paris, June 15 (delayed).

The exchange of views between M. Loucheur and Herr Rathenau respecting the all-important problem of reparations is to be resumed at Paris shortly. Paris and Berlin opinions consider the first results decidedly favourable. French political circles almost unanimously approved the Government's move, which is said to be bearing the mark of realisation of the policy which M. Briand advocated upon assuming the Premiership—Paris.

CHINA'S STATUS.

Diplomatic Representation and Foreign Post-offices.

(Reuter's Service.) London, June 20.

In the House of Commons, Commander Bellairs urged that, in pursuance of our historic mission of encouragement to China, the Government raise the status of the British diplomatic representative to China to that of Ambassador, and negotiate with the five other Powers who have Post Offices in China for the withdrawal of the post-offices in recognition of China's status as a great Power.

Mr. Harmsworth replied that it was not proposed to raise the status of the British representative in the existing conditions of China, nor to negotiate for the withdrawal of the post-offices.

Commander Bellairs suggested that the pledge given at the meeting of Allied Ministers in August 1917 to do their best to see that China enjoyed higher international status was being violated. Mr. Harmsworth replied that he could not discuss the matter by question and answer.

The Question of Wei-Hai-Wei.

London, June 20.

CANTON NEWS.

General Chan King-ming left Canton for Shikung yesterday for the purpose of inspecting the military situation. A staff of sixty officials accompanied him.

The situation on the south-west front is becoming serious and the cruiser Kwonghai with two aeroplanes have left for Kowchow.

It is said that Ngai Pong-ping, the commander-in-chief on the West River, has informed General Chan King-ming that if he would come to the Wuchow front personally the troops could capture Wuchow in thirty hours.

A reliable report states that the fighting on the south-west front has broken out in earnest, especially near Kowchow, and that it has been continuing for several days. Reinforcements have been sent from the neighbouring districts.

The Provincial Treasurer Ma has, upon persuasion by President Sun Yat-sen, agreed to resume his office and has decided that 50 per cent of the pay of civil officials for July and August will be made in provincial bonds.

A member of the Fatsan Chamber of Commerce who has been in military custody for refusing to buy provincial bonds, has now been set at liberty on purchasing $1,000 worth.

We take the following paragraphs from the Canton Times:—

A party of Chinese capitalists recently returned from the Straits Settlements have been negotiating with local authorities for a charter to have Whampoa opened as a commercial port. The party is now staying at the Hotel Asia but some of the members of the party will soon leave for Hongkong to consult with some of the Chinese capitalists in that place inviting their co-operation. A very extensive scheme is presented to the local authorities embodying the construction of a harbour for the accommodation of ocean vessels.

As an echo of the various labour strikes in Canton which seem to have subsided, the workers on the Sunning Railway declared a strike a few days ago on account of the refusal of the managing director of the line to concede to their demands for an increase in wages and shorter working hours, and his subsequent rough treatment of the workers with the aid of police. It is said that those who negotiated with the director on behalf of the workers were arrested by the police employed by the railway. Now that a strike has been declared, the workers are said to be very firm in their demands and that the strike will not be called off unless they have gained the victory over the managing director who is considered a very obstinate man.

Through the amicable settlement arranged by Gov. Chen Chiung-ming, the various labour strikes seem to have ended and the workers in the different trades have practically all returned to their work. There are, however, cases of strikes in the smaller establishments, and friction between the workers and some dissatisfied labourers who have no employment is reported. Threats have been made to the managers of several small machine shops by unemployed workers that unless they suspend business, drastic action will be taken to injure their business. These shop owners have appealed to the officials for protection, and the officials are now taking necessary precautions to avoid any more disagreeable happenings between the employers and their workers.

MOTOR CAR FATALITY.

Need for Stricter Supervision.

At the Magistracy yesterday afternoon Mr. G. N. Orme, in the capacity of Coroner, conducted an inquiry into the death of Kwan Siu-ki, the young son of Dr. Kwan Sum-in, a local medical practitioner. The boy died on the 13th inst. as a result of injuries sustained through being knocked down by a motor car owned by Mr. D. M. Biggar in Caine Road.

The following composed the jury: Messrs. C. G. Anderson, J. McCubbin and Ng King-tain.

Mr. M. K. Lo watched the proceedings on behalf of Dr. Kwan. So Wai, a servant boy employed at No. 1, Caine Road, said that at 8.45 a.m. on June 13th, he was walking along Caine Road towards Wanchai when a motor car passed him from behind. When he reached Ka Chan restaurant he saw deceased jump into the street from the door of No. 40, Caine Road. Deceased had just gone paces from his house when the car knocked him down. In his opinion it was travelling at an ordinary speed.

Answering Mr. Lo, So Wai said the car did not sound the horn at all. Deceased was on the roadside, close to his house, when the car knocked him down.

Mr. Biggar, who was in the car at the time of the accident, said his car was driven on the morning of June 13th by his Chinese chauffeur, who had been in his employ for about seven weeks. The car was travelling on a downward gradient when deceased jumped out from a blind doorway without touching the steps of his door. The car was travelling at a speed not exceeding twelve miles an hour. Witness had continually warned his driver not to drive fast in that locality on Caine Road. He was in the back seat of the car and had a complete view of the accident. The car was travelling in the centre of the road, a little to the left. When the deceased jumped out, apparently to cross the road to get to his school on the opposite side of his house, the driver sounded his horn and jammed the emergency brake. The car stopped at a distance of not more than five feet from the spot of the tragedy. He could not say whether the boy slipped and fell or the car actually knocked him down. The car skidded on after the chauffeur had applied his brake. The boy appeared to turn back to his house when the car approached, but it was too late. He was practically on the middle of the road when the chauffeur put on his brake. This particular portion of the road was very narrow.

Examined by Mr. Lo, Mr. Biggar said he believed it had been raining on the morning of June 13th. The gradient, he referred to, was always slippery, but he was of the opinion that if a car was travelling at a rate of about twelve miles an hour it could be pulled up at a distance of five or six feet from the spot where the brake was applied.

Mr. Lo examined the witness on the provision he made to prevent the car from involuntarily running down cross roads. Mr. Biggar considered that three feet from the edge of the road was sufficient to ensure the car's safety.

Examined by Mr. Anderson, Mr. Biggar affirmed that the speed of his car on the morning in question was not more than 12 miles an hour.

Traffic Inspector Garrod stated that he inspected the scene on the boy's death shortly after noon on the 13th and measured this spot. The skid mark of Mr. Biggar's car were still distinct. It extended five feet west from No. 40, continued for 32 feet in an almost straight line and slightly curved to the left for three feet. The mark marked out the centre of the road as the route taken by the car.

The brakes of Mr. Biggar's car were in perfect order. The stop where the accident occurred was part of a steep gradient. The whole length of Caine Road was dangerous to pedestrians when there was motor traffic, because there was no pavement, except a short sidewalk near house No. 40. The general instructions to the traffic Sergeant was to prevent speeding on that road, Caine Road would be widened in the near future, and the necessary plans were now in the hands of the Public Works Department. The authorised speed from Government House to the University was 10 miles an hour.

Examined by Mr. Lo, Inspector Garrod stated that if a car, which was going at a speed of 12 miles an hour, were pulled up in going down the gradient mentioned previously, the sudden application of the brake would cause a serious skid. There were a number of schools on Caine Road, but the French Convent was the only school outside which was erected a warning post to motorists of the possibility of meeting school children. No such warning signs were displayed outside Chinese schools because Chinese schools often changed their addresses. In the gradient in question was a lamp post, which, in witness's opinion, constituted a danger to motorists, and should be removed. The speed limit of ten miles an hour was being vigorously enforced and traffic sergeants and constables had been instructed to take action against people for speeding. There were no policemen on point duty to regulate traffic in the vicinity of the accident during school hours, but the police visited the place now and then. The police had done everything possible to warn the Chinese of the dangers of wandering about absent-mindedly and slips of paper had been distributed to shops and dwellings some time ago instructing them how to avoid motor cars etc. Within the last two years, three boys had been killed by motor cars on Caine Road, in addition to minor injuries.

Examined by Mr. Anderson, Inspector Garrod stated that although the speed limit fixed by the police was 10 miles an hour, motorists sometimes exceeded that speed on Caine Road. At the conclusion of his evidence Inspector Garrod informed the Court that the driver of Mr. Biggar was seriously ill and could not attend. The distressing accident had preyed upon his mind. Addressing the jury the coroner said that it was difficult to obtain other eye witnesses. The driver of Mr. Biggar had apparently taken the accident too much to heart and was suffering from a nervous breakdown. He believed that he could throw no fresh light on the cause of the accident.

Mr. Lo: I don't wish to call him, if the cause of his illness is the death of the boy.

Mr. Biggar said his driver informed him through his comrade on Friday morning that he could not eat or sleep at night.

Mr. Lo then addressed the jury. He said that he did not appear to nail the responsible of the death of deceased to any party. The boy's death, seemed to be due more to sad circumstances, such as the dangerous condition of the road, etc., than to lack of human precautions. If the accident could have been prevented by proper precautions, what struck him was that the state of affairs, as to the condition of the road was such that it required to be looked into at once. Inspector Garrod had told the Court that within two years there had been three deaths caused by motor cars, all of the boys about the same age as deceased. Dr. Kwan, in asking him (Mr. Lo) to be in Court had but one object in view for the sake of the memory of the one he had lost, and that was to induce the jury to make strong recommendations to have the road improved. Should a verdict of accidental death be returned by the jury he would submit the following recommendations for their consideration: That the lamp post at the cross-road be removed at once, that the gradient be attended to without delay, and that stricter supervision of motor traffic should be exercised by the police on Caine Road during school hours, i.e. between 8 and 9 a.m. and the hours in the afternoon.

After a brief retirement the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death. The jury submitted the recommendations suggested by Mr. Lo.

ICHANG AND WUCHANG.

Widespread Outbreak.* But Trouble Subsiding.

Reports from Ichang more than confirm all that has been published concerning the outbreak.

Considerable interest was manifested on the Bund on the morning of the 7th when an armed party was seen proceeding from H.M.S. Gnat to Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co. Kiang Wo, followed a little later by H.B.M. Consul and an armed Chinese guard. On inquiry later in the day, it was ascertained that three men, and a woman, said to be an officer's wife, had been discovered on board the steamer. The men were looters who had missed the Sunday night's steamer and were trying to get away on a British boat. Examination of their baggage revealed a large quantity of loot, including pieces of silk, blankets, fur coats and skins, and many articles of clothing. It is interesting to note that no opium was found. Many of the articles found were claimed by members of the aforesaid company's Chinese staff, which they declared had been removed from Ewo Yu.

The loot was confiscated and the four guilty ones were handed over to the Chinese authorities. A BOYCOTT THREATENED.

The Chinese merchants and shippers have intimated that all shipments will cease after seven days until the foreign firms get some satisfaction from Peking with a guarantee that in future godowns will be safe and the houses in which the merchants live secure from attacks by soldiers.

A report from Hankow of June 12 says: The situation in Wuchang and the native city here has been considerably ameliorated. The trouble with the troops is believed to have been satisfactorily settled. It is understood that the remainder of the Ichang and Wuchang looters have agreed to disbandment on condition that they retain their arms and booty; and that small parties will be allowed to retain their arms until their arrival in the north, whither they are to be transported by train. It is also reported that they are receiving three months pay gratuitously.

The Vice-Minister of War and two other Governmental representatives have arrived in Wuchang for the purpose of investigating the situation there and holding discussions with the Tachun regarding the restoration of order.

The cotton and other mills at Wuchang re-started work to-day. Hankow is quiet but some feeling of unrest prevails, though there have been no disturbances. Negotiations for the transfer of goods from the native city to the concessions are pending.—Renter.

A later report says: The situation at Wuchang is reported to be improving, and everything is very quiet in Hankow. The general opinion is that the trouble is over for the present.

LABOUR CONDITIONS IN JAPAN.

Impressions of a Special Correspondent.

An investigation into Labour organisation in the Japan has been conducted by Mr. W. P. Simms, the U.S. special correspondent who did Press duty throughout the world war and at the Peace Conference.

"There is very little unrest, social or political, in Japan, despite low wages, high cost of living and considerable unemployment."

It was Mr. Y. Suzuki who told me this in the course of an interview at the Tokyo headquarters of the Yuaikai, or Japanese Federation of Labour, writes Mr. Simms, who continues: Mr. Suzuki, "the Samuel Gompers of Japan," is founder and president of this organization. Literally Yuaikai—pronounced "You-ai-ky"—to rhyme with "high"—means "friendly love society," or, less literally, "brotherhood."

Mr. Gompers would find Japan a wonderful field for his organizing talents—if the police would let him operate, which they probably wouldn't—for though the country teems with workers they are still so badly organized that it may almost be said that there is no cohesion at all.

Furthermore, there does not seem to be any very great desire to get together, as labour in the United States has organized, though Mr. Suzuki declares the Yuaikai is growing right along—albeit very slowly, as it would seem to American leaders.

"The total membership of the Yuaikai numbers 35,000," the federation's president said. "By this I mean those actually affiliated with the national body. Counting the independent organizations, or local unions, not actually part of the Yuaikai, but functioning as labour unions just the same, I estimate the total for Japan would be about a hundred thousand."

But Mr. Suzuki has no jurisdiction over the 65,000 outside the Yuaikai and such a thing as a nation-wide strike is out of the question. Local labour disputes and strikes are not uncommon but a steel strike, or a coal strike, such as those staged in America, could scarcely be brought about in Japan.

"Of the 35,000 members belonging to the Yuaikai," President Suzuki explained, "about 12,000 are iron workers; 10,000 seamen; 4,000 miners and so forth. Then there are—affiliated with us, however—the Miners' Federated Union of Japan, numbering about 20,000 members; the printers and pressmen of Tokyo numbering some 12,000; the Osaka Iron Workers' Union, whose membership would reach about 10,000, and other such organizations which work in harmony with us. To appreciate the true strength of Japanese labour all these must be taken into consideration."

YUAIKAI 9 YEARS OLD.
This may not appear very formidable as the result of nine years of "painstaking work, but, considering the handicap, it doesn't look so bad."

There is no labour minister in the Japanese cabinet. Labour is looked after by the home department—corresponding to the American Department of the Interior—but it seems that there is no separate labour "bureau," the head of the police bureau of the home department also attending to labour, which fact may afford an idea of the official attitude towards labour and explain the slowness of the growth of the movement at the same time.

Every day, I was told, a police visit is paid to Yuaikai headquarters, a plain-clothes man arriving, usually in the afternoon, staying an hour or so and making inquiries as to the day's doings.

POLICE AT MEETINGS.

"Whenever meetings are in order the police are present and take down what is said. Further, they can, and do, stop speeches when they consider 'dangerous thoughts' are being expressed. As this is left to the discretion of the local police, what would be stopped in one district of the same city might easily get by in the adjoining district."

"The first attempt to form a labour federation was about 20 years ago," said Mr. Suzuki, "by a group of Socialists who had been in America." Locomotive engineers, iron workers, printers, munitions workers and other unions were formed, but the movement had a very brief life.

"There were several reasons for its lack of success," the labour leader told me, "but the fact that it was socialistic in character got it official opposition."

EARLIER TELEGRAMS.

ENEMY SHIPS.

London, June 20.
Lord Incheape in a letter to the Times says that the 9 ex-German ships advertised for sale to British nationals only, which still employed German hands and had been repatriating refugees from the Baltic on behalf of the League of Nations, had been sold to a German buyer with the concurrence of the Reparations Commission. An uncommonly good price had been obtained, which it was impossible to obtain from British buyers. It had now been decided that after June 30 the market would be thrown open to the world for ships left unsold to British buyers. Lord Incheape declares that the liquid resources of British shipowners appear to be getting exhausted, owing to taxation, high wages, strikes, etc.

THE ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE.

London, June 20.
The "Daily Telegraph" gives prominence to an article by Mr. Lennox Simpson ("Putnam Weale"), blaming the Anglo-Japanese Treaty for the turmoil and intrigue existing in China and contending that if the Alliance is allowed to lapse a remarkable change would ensue. China and Japan would become friends and equals. Mr. Simpson appeals to the Dominion Premiers to study and grasp the fact that the condition of China, coupled with Britain's and Japanese commitments, constitute the gravest menace to the Pacific.

INDIAN RICE.

Rangoon, June 20.
As a result of efforts to corner the rice market, the lowest quality of rice reached the record price of Rs. 550 per hundred baskets. There has been a panic among the merchants who have suspended business till June 20. Government action is expected.

RECONSTRUCTION OF DUTCH CABINET?

The Hague, June 20.
It is announced that the Queen received the party leaders on the Right in the Second Chamber on June 15th in order to discuss the possibility of a reconstruction of the Cabinet.

TROTSKY SERIOUSLY ILL.

Paris, June 20.
According to a Helsingfors telegram, Trotsky has cancer of the lungs, and his condition is serious.

It had no financial support and, in fact, little interest was shown in it by the workers themselves."

The Yuaikai was formed in 1912, in Tokyo. To begin with it was only a union which included among its members workers from various trades. Later, as it grew, it split into real trade unions affiliated with the National Federation.

MANY WOMEN WORKERS.

Mr. Suzuki estimates the number of employees in industrial pursuits in Japan to be approximately two millions. The official table furnished by the Department of Finance of the Imperial Government, he said, does not give a complete list by any means, this table placing the number at 1,429,177 for 1917, the latest available.

In the official figures women are in the majority as industrial workers in Japan, there 745,359 women recorded as against 683,918 men. This unusual situation is accounted for by the fact that in the textile industry women employees predominate to such an extent that, though male workers in all the other trades are more numerous, the lead is not overcome.

By classifications the figures are:

For textile factories (silk filatures, spinning, throwing, weaving, knitting, bleaching, dyeing, etc.): 108,295 males, 605,325 females; total, 713,620.

Machine and tool factories: 208,874 males, 13,492 females; total, 222,366.

Chemical works, ceramics, papermaking, lacquers, medicines, gums, toilet articles, etc.: 93,894 males, 42,875 females; total, 141,769.

Food and drink factories (breweries, rice, tea, canning, etc.): 51,903 males, 11,028 females; total, 62,931.

WAGES LOW.

Miscellaneous: 106,747 males, 49,404 females; total, 156,151.

Factories under government control (printing, tobacco, railways, army, navy etc.): 115,274 males, 32,239 females; total, 147,513.

Wages rose considerably during the war, in Japan as elsewhere, but the tendency now is towards a reduction, according to Mr. Suzuki. According to the Osaka Chamber of Commerce, wages for the autumn months of 1919 (about what they now are, as the subsequent rise has about subsided) were:

Rice cleaners, 32 cents daily; sake makers, $75 yearly; sweets makers, $17 monthly; spinning, 35 cents daily; weaving, 25 cents, 38 cents; coloring designs on towels, 85 cents; tailoring, 60 cents; metal refining, 42 cents; forging, 60 cents; shipbuilding, 48 cents; casting, 58 cents; tin plate, 65 cents; glass, 60 cents; cement, 80 cents; brick, 60 cents; cabinet making 80 cents; barrel making, $1.25; printing, 70 cents; building $1; bricklaying, $1.10; tile roofers, $1.20; stone workers, $1.45; gardening, 75 cents.

WANTS SUFFRAGE.

Mr. Suzuki attributes labour's situation in Japan to the lack of political and economic freedom. There is no universal suffrage and without this the labour leader declared the labour movement cannot meet with any real success.

"The law does not actually forbid strikes," he declared "but the much discussed Art. 17, of the police regulations, virtually deprives labour of the right of legal assembly. As practically no labourers can vote they can hope for no change in legislation until they get suffrage. Art. 17 reads: 'No person may do violence or intimidate or publicly slander others with the object mentioned in any of the following sections or to lure or instigate others with the object mentioned in Sec. 2.'

"1. To cause them to join or prevent them from joining an organization intended to take a concerted action in regard to conditions of labour or wages."

"2. To cause employers to discharge workmen or refuse offers of labour or to cause workmen to suspend work or to cause workmen to refuse offers of employment in order to effect a lockout or strike."

"3. To force the consent of the other party in regard to conditions of labour or wages."

I asked Mr. Suzuki if there is any general desire, among the workingmen themselves, for the right to vote. He shook his head. Elsewhere I was told that a very large number of Japanese who might vote by paying the $1.50 property tax which would entitle them to the suffrage do not pay the tax, and so have no voice in government.

The family in Japan is the unit, not the individual, so when one member of a family is out of work he is taken care of by the others of his family until he finds something to do.

This is not considered a hardship in Japan. It has always been the custom. Then the rule, of course, works both ways. The branch of the family who this spring must support the remainder of his kin, may next year, be, in turn, supported by them. It is all taken as a matter of course.

So the present unemployment in Japan does not create the unrest so general elsewhere in the world.

Whatever they may be tomorrow, the Japanese masses are to-day a fairly satisfied lot.

Armed Raid at Sham Shui Po.

The story of an armed raid on a rice dealer's store at 88, Pei Ho St., Sham Shui Po, was related at the Criminal Sessions before Mr. Justice Wood, this morning when Chan Yee was charged with robbing, with others unknown, a Chinese named Ngan Tsoi and his wife, Li Yuk-lin, of $50 and various articles of jewellery at Sham Shui Po on May 1st.

The Jury were Messrs. N. A. Hargreaves (foreman), A. F. de Silva, D. G. Smith, A. J. Bursley, S. Mussa, C. Onslow and E. M. Wilson.

Mr. Dyer Ball, prosecuting for the Crown said at about half-past seven on the evening of May 1st while Ngan Tsoi and his wife and foks were in the shop at Sham Shui Po having their evening meal six men entered. One of them was prisoner and he has been identified by the owner of the shop, his wife and one of the foks. He was carrying a gun or a revolver and two of the men also were said to be carrying guns. One of the intruders opened a drawer in the counter of the shop and removed all the money, about $50, and two others, at prisoner's order went into a cubicle at the back and tried to open the safe, which was said to have contained between four and five hundred dollars at the time.

The wife of the master of the shop was robbed of a pair of gold mounted bangles and a finger ring, which articles were taken by the robbers from off her hands, all this was done very quickly and very quietly and the robbers threatened the occupants that they would shoot anyone who made a noise. They were in the shop about five or ten minutes and then went away. After they had left, one of the foks informed the police and told them that prisoner was one of the six men. He told them his name and where he lived. Prisoner was the only one who was recognised by anyone in the shop. The police went with the foki who had given the information to a certain garden at Cheung Sha Wan and there prisoner, when he arrived at about 11 o'clock, was pointed out by the foki and arrested.

The case is proceeding.

COMMONS' TOPICS.

EX-SERVICE MEN AND BUILDING TRADES.

Sir Bertram Ball, asked the Minister of Labour if he could make any statement as to the joiners' strike and the prospects of a settlement.

Dr. Macnamara said he regretted he was unable to add anything at the moment to his reply of 4th May. He was still in touch with the parties.

Dr. Macnamara informed Viscount Curzon that the number of ex-Service men who had applied under the Government scheme for employment in the building trades was 12,366. The number of men actually employed was small owing to the general stagnation brought about by the industrial situation, which had caused delay in the execution of building contracts. Employers had assured him they would do every-

Judgment Given.

Judgment in the case in which the Kat Cheung Firm sued two ex-employees Leung Man Cook for the sum of $143.32 and Wan Shan for the sum of $677.36, balance due for money advanced and goods sold and delivered by plaintiffs to defendants was given by Mr. Justice Wood in the Summary Court this morning as follows:—

In these cases the claim of the plaintiff firm is for the balance due on an account kept between them and the defendants.

The defendants have been employees of the plaintiff firm for a great number of years. In the books of the plaintiff firm they have been credited with certain sums from time to time to them and have also been debited with other sums due from them, the account being balanced and agreed at the end of each Chinese year. The correctness of the details of the account which was kept by the plaintiff firm is not disputed by the defendants, but it has been contended on their behalf that they are not liable for any balance on the account debited against them in respect of items which are more than three years prior in date to the issue of the present writs.

The defendants claim that they are entitled to a clean account as between themselves and the plaintiff firm, commencing three years prior to the commencement of these actions. Any claim in respect of the earlier accounts is according to their submission barred by Sec. 8. of the Supreme Court (Summary Jurisdiction) Ordinance, 1873. (Ord. 4 of 1873).

It is admitted that the amounts placed from time to time to the credit of the defendants in these accounts have not been appropriated by either party to the discharge of any specified liability. That being so, the rule is that in the absence of such appropriation entries made in the defendants' favour in the books of the plaintiff firm are now presumed each of them to have been in discharge of those liabilities which were earliest in date in each case.

It follows therefore that the contractual liabilities of the defendants, recorded in these accounts, which are still outstanding, are those most recent in date, and these I will here assume to be all incurred within the period of three years prior to the commencement of these actions.

The points raised during the hearing of these cases as to the general effect of the Statutes of Limitation and as to the result of payment in reviving the legal remedy do not appear to arise for decision.

In this case plaintiffs were represented by Mr. Vaux and defendants by Mr. W. B. Hind.

Sir A. Mond, replying to Mr. Frederick Green, said so far as he knew there had been only two cases in this country since the Armistice in which persons bitten by dogs, reasonably suspected of being infected with rabies, had refused the Pasteur treatment. Neither of them developed hydrophobia.

"For 8 years I suffered with a terrible wound stretching from the abdomen to the right hip, during that time I tried doctors and patent medicines innumerable, but without success. At length I was persuaded to try 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' and after taking the first bottle began to see an improvement which has continued, with the result that my wound is healed and I now have no pain. I am writing this testimony so that other sufferers like myself may have the benefit of your marvellous medicine." In a further recent letter, nearly two years later, Mr. Mack writes: "I am happy to say that there has been no recurrence of my complaint, and consider my case a very satisfactory cure."

JOAN OF ARC MEMORIAL FOR WINCHESTER.

A statue of Joan of Arc has been designed for Winchester Cathedral. It will be erected near the tomb of Cardinal Beaufort, who sat among the judges who sent her to execution at Rouen during the war with France nearly 500 years ago. This memorial, says the committee who have charge of the arrangements, will be "both a slight act of reparation and an earnest that we in England join in the admiration and reverence for her with the great nation which in her days was our gallant enemy." In raising a sum of £500 the committee appeals particularly to the women and girls of England.

YOUTH IS FIT TO GOVERN.

Age Not the Test.

I heard a gentleman the other day asserting his belief that no person over 40 ought to be allowed to be a Minister. He was about 20, so that he lies under the suspicion of bias. But this observation led me to speculate whether persons of any particular age have any particular claim to the monopoly of government, writes Capt. Colin Coote, D. S. O., M. P.

It will be remembered that in classical Constitutions no man was supposed to be fit for membership of the supreme legislative body until he was over a certain age. Sixty was generally supposed to mark the dividing line between sense and nonsense. The naturally conservative instincts of mankind have preserved this special claim of the aged down to our own time, and under our own Constitution no woman is supposed to have sense enough for anything higher than husband hunting before she attains the age of 30.

Like nearly all principles, this political conception is founded upon nothing but prejudice. It is as absurd as saying that political power should be limited to persons under 20. The only limitations in fact should be tottering infancy and doddering senility. Within those limits almost anybody is fit to govern, for government is no longer a matter of art or knowledge, or experience, but a matter of intuition. Anybody can do as well in the game as the next man provided he possesses average intelligence and honesty; for example, the intelligence to see that no Government can work miracles and the honesty to admit it.

OLD MEN AND EXPERTS.

I can make out a pretty strong indictment against both young men and old; and if young men put forward a claim to special preferment in the political world, they must remember that they thereby lose the right to use their youth as an excuse for incapacity or failure.

The old men, in spite of claims to wisdom, can be accused of the grossest crimes.

They have murdered 700,000 young men in Britain and 10 millions in the world in a war which, though they controlled every country, they could not prevent.

They have filled the jobs; they are tired; they have not learned idealism.

Moreover, I claim that the majesty which surrounds the "expert" has disappeared. For example, one set of experts said we needed 800,000 new houses. Within a few months another declared that we needed only 150,000. Everybody knows the Stock Exchange experts who go bankrupt on an average twice a year. Everybody knows the Navy experts, who cannot make up their minds whether we want Great Ships or—? From the time of the first philosopher the world has been fooled by experts.

I do not say that the ignorant will be any better. The average young man who was too young to be a soldier is very much like his 1914 predecessor, and still mainly devoted to the study of his own psychology. Those who have been soldiers and may still be called young have fought not only the Germans but the quarter-master for five years, and the appalling struggle for light and fuel allowances has left them chronically materialistic. Honesty commands an immense premium, simply because for five years honesty has merely led to your going over the top instead of the other fellow, and that has not been very encouraging. The main task of Government, therefore, is to restore confidence and trust in the institution of Government, and men of any age can do that.

IDEALISM—AND ILLUSION. For no age has the monopoly of the cardinal political virtues, honesty, ability, and sincerity—which last is really a question of how long a man can keep office without his moral tissues rotting. No age has the monopoly of idealism. By idealism I do not mean illusion, for which it is often mistaken; but I mean knowing what one wants to happen and straining every nerve to make it happen. Idealism is belief in something more than chaos.

Since the beginning of time humanity has been set a continuous series of examination papers by Nature. hitherto it has passed them all by knowledge or bluff. It has answered the great questions one to the possibility of life, speech, movement, and thought.

But all the questions it has bluffed have now been condensed into the great double question, "Is Justice possible?" and "Is Peace possible?" The possibility of peace depends very largely upon the unquestioned sincerity of the attempts of Governments to do justice as between man and man and between class and class.

That is why I have framed my category of ideal political qualities upon a passive rather than an active basis because people do not care so much if a Government succeeds, so long as it genuinely tries. When one after another of our most cherished beliefs have broken down, anybody, whatever his age, who can give us something in which to believe is fit to be not merely a Minister, but a Dictator.

[Capt. Colin Coote is one of the most promising of the younger Coalition-Liberal M. P.s. It was largely owing to his and Capt. Elliott's initiative that the historic meeting of M. P.s was arranged which led to the crisis in the Triple Alliance.]

HONGKONG, TUESDAY, JUNE 21, 1921.

ARCHBISHOP MANNIX.

We have already announced that Archbishop Mannix is due to arrive in Hongkong this week by the Japanese liner Kleist and that a reception for him is being arranged by the local Roman Catholic community. And we might as well take this opportunity of announcing, also, that a considerable section of British residents in this Colony view with very great displeasure the prospect of the visitor being "lionised." A writer to the Hongkong Daily Press said as much yesterday morning, giving it as his opinion that the shorter the visit the better the majority of Britons would be pleased. Let it be understood that in having our little say on this matter there is not the slightest desire to wound the susceptibilities of any religious body. The religious consideration does not enter into the question for one moment. We should feel exactly the same if the visitor were simply "Mr. Mannix."

In the summer of last year Archbishop Mannix of Melbourne paid a visit to the United States of America, intending from there to visit Ireland. Whilst he was enjoying the hospitality of a foreign country he saw fit to deliver himself of sentiments so violently anti-British that a considerable outcry was raised against him at home as well as in Australia. The British Government taking official notice of the matter when the Archbishop left New York on his visit to Ireland. He was never allowed to land in Ireland, was taken off the boat he was travelling on at Penzance and kept under official surveillance the whole time he was in England. He is now on his way back to Australia and is making a tour of the Far East en route. So violently anti-British were the sentiments expressed that even the Vatican expressed surprise at the utterances and advised the Australian prelate to "abstain from intemperate political manifestations." A leading Catholic Member of the House of Commons told that assembly that all loyal Catholics dissociated themselves from this "rebel Archbishop" and Mr. Hughes, the Australian Prime Minister on more than one occasion roundly censured this Irish sympathiser who had openly stated that he wanted to see England and America enemies, that he wanted Ireland to fight England and that he also wanted America to fight England. The mission to America was almost entirely political in its character and Archbishop Mannix's actions there were those of a political agitator. Speaking at Madison Square Gardens early in July 1920 he urged America to recognise the Irish Republic, said there was no risk of the Empire supporting England on the Irish question, and advised America not to rely on British friendship on the ground that Britain had never been more unfriendly in her heart towards America than she was then. In his misplaced zeal for the Irish cause he left no effort untried to cause war between the two great English speaking Powers.

And this is the man who is going to be given a reception of welcome and who is to be made a hero of. In his church he might be a big figure and his co-religionists have, doubtless, the right to make much of him in their own way. But we trust that there will be no misunderstanding. It isn't Hongkong that is giving that welcome. Loyal Britishers can have little sympathy with men who, in pursuit of a political end, fire at innocent signalmen working on English railways and try to terrorise the whole of the travelling public by such a proceeding: neither can they sympathise with men who will fire on dock workers going to their peaceful tasks, or murder women just because they are the wives of army officers. When a church dignitary, who should be preaching the gospel of love and peace, tries to make war in support of such rebels against the British Crown we quite unhesitatingly say that this Colony as a whole does not give him a welcome.

NOTES &amp; COMMENTS.

The Coal-Strike Impasse.

Even the miners' executive, it is said and may well be believed, were surprised at the result of the ballot, with its overwhelming rejection of the proposed settlement. Attempts have been made to minimise the significance of the vote on the score of abstentions, and as some 35 per cent. of the miners did not vote it is just possible that their passivity turned the scale, seeing that a two-thirds majority was requisite for continuing the strike. The inference, however, is in the opposite direction, as the assumption is that the absentees would have recorded their votes if they had been kept upon resuming. It must be said that the poll brings out strongly the men's continued sense of dissatisfaction, and makes the prospect of peace appear more remote than ever, especially in view of the expiry of the Government's subsidy offer, on the one hand, and, on the other, the appeal to the Labour movement for an extension of the strike. The damage to the country, most of all to the workers, is in a literal sense incalculable. Mobilisation of the forces entailed an expenditure approximating to a million per day, if not more. Considering the number employed in the collieries, the loss of wages to the miners must be mounting up to a prodigious figure, and, of course, the stoppage of the mines has meant widespread closing-down of various industries. When the machinery and capital that are lying idle and the loss of markets are added to the bill, an expert statistician would be at a loss to reckon the total. At least it must be earnestly hoped that the deadlock will not be aggravated by an extension of the strike, particularly now that amicable counsels have prevailed with the engineers and cotton operatives. It is a singular circumstance, and one with a gleam of reassurance, that there is some belief in a desire on the miners' part, notwithstanding the ballot, to return to work, this belief being attested by the action of the mineowners in opening the collieries in readiness.

Ichang and Wuchang.

Reports to hand from Ichang and Wuchang, indefinite on some important points, make only too clear the chaotic conditions that have recently prevailed in those quarters. Very large numbers of Chinese of both sexes and all ages have met horrible deaths, and looting has been on a wholesale scale, a number of European and Japanese establishments being among the victims. In what reckless mood the rioters were evidenced by the attack upon the Japanese Consulate at Ichang, at first contradicted, now confirmed. If European and Japanese escaped without loss of life in the general melee, it must have been more by good fortune than anything else, for the soldiery were entirely out of hand. Evidently superstitious Wang (one of the triumvirate recently gathered at Tientsin and Peking) was alive to the expediency of placating the foreign victims, as a reparations committee is to deal with their claims (there are outstanding claims, by the way, in respect of a previous outbreak). The trouble is attributed to the non-payment of the troops, and the Wuchang soldier-brigade fixed up with the inhabitants an extraordinary compact by which they agreed to disband in consideration of retaining their plunder. Report says that quiet has returned. For how long? Opinions differ as to whether the riots will affect the prestige of Wang, who received a substantial sum recently for the pay of the troops. If his prestige is not affected, it ought to be.

Chinese Speculators.

According to the vernacular Press, a Chinese stock exchange, capitalised at a million dollars, is to be opened at Shanghai. The report contains the peculiar announcement that the exchange will conduct its operations at night—which does not signify, we trust, that they will not bear the light of day. A more ambitious project is announced for Canton, where an exchange with $10,000,000 capital is promised, and the prospect is held out that it will prove a great boon to the business community. Exchanges, share or produce, can fulfil a valuable function. They can also prove a bane. Our Chinese neighbours delight in a flutter, and facilities for gratifying the propensity are increased by the growth of exchanges.

DAY BY DAY.

PRIVATE OPINION IS WEAK, BUT PUBLIC OPINION IS ALMOST OMNIPOTENT. — Henry Ward Beecher.

Last night Revenue officers raided a junk in Yaumati Bay and seized 175 taels of prepared opium and 286 taels of raw opium. No arrests were made.

The bogey pool competition, played over the Relief Course, Fanning, during last week-end (18th 19th & 20th instant), was won by Mr. J. D. Mitchell, 5 up.

A Chinese woman attempted to commit suicide yesterday by jumping into the harbour from the Fraya. She was rescued by the master of a cargo junk. She is now in Hospital.

A shop-lifter was sentenced by Mr. R. E. Lindsell this morning to four weeks' hard labour. He was arrested at Sincere's with a roll of white cloth under his long coat. He had stolen it from the second floor of the store.

Revenue officers succeeded in tracing on Sunday, among a four-foot high pile of coolie bamboo hats, 20,785 cigarettes cleverly concealed. The seizure was made on board the s.s. Tailee. It is presumed that a passenger had left them there. No arrests were made.

A Chinese lad received this morning twelve month's hard labour, twelve strokes of the "cat" and four hours' stocks for snatching an ear-ring set with diamonds, valued at $150, belonging to a woman, who was walking in Wing Shing street. The defendant was arrested by a Chinese constable.

The owners of the s.s. Chiu-chow were charged this morning in Mr. Orme's Court with failing to furnish, within four hours of the arrival of the vessel, a manifest of five cases containing 76,500 cigarettes. Mr. M. K. Lo appeared for the owners of the ship. The hearing was adjourned till next Tuesday.

Before Mr. R. E. Lindsell this morning four Chinese were charged with being in possession of five cases containing 120,000 cigarettes. The tobacco was seized by revenue officers last night on board the s.s. Suiyang from Macao. Mr. Mason applied for a remand till to-morrow, which was granted.

A successful whist drive was held last Saturday evening at the Willis Sergeant's Mess, at which the following were the prize-winners—Ladies: 1st. Mrs. Pryer, (181), 2nd. Mrs. H. White, (174), 3rd. ## FOREIGN CHILDREN IN THE FAR EAST are especially subject to worms, some of the indications of which are irregular appetite, bad breath, grinding of the teeth in sleep, pain and swelling of the abdomen, irritation in the nose. Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, given for a few days, destroy worms, and a marked improvement in appetite and health speedily follows.

As an example of their efficacy in cases of this nature the evidence of Mrs. E. Morri on, Didsbury, North West Canada, is illuminating. She writes: "I can strongly recommend Baby's Own Tablets to mothers whose children are troubled with worms. I have never used a better medicine for this trouble. I have also found the Tablets good at teething time."

Babies and young children need special medicine of their own, something prompt yet mild in action, and which can be given without the slightest fear or hesitation. Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, exactly answer this description and are just the right remedy for infantile indigestion, colic, constipation, simple fever, diarrhoea, teething troubles and colds. Obtainable from chemists, also post free at 60 cents the vial from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Se-chuen Road, Shanghai.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Shanghai, June 21. The rice situation is serious, the Guild voting for the closing of shops on July 1st, rather than submit to the Municipal regulation licensing shops. The Municipal Council publishes lengthy correspondence this morning defending its stand on the grounds that it is necessary for the public to know the amount of stocks on hand in Shanghai.

To Prevent Strikes.

Annamite police are being trained as motormen and conductors on French trams to prevent future strikes.

Pity the Drivers!

A Chinese association, called the Life Protection Society, asks the Municipal Council to make novel regulations for motor car drivers, including punishment of chauffeurs killing pedestrians by locking the chauffeur in a room with a wax image of the person killed or injured.

The Public Garden controversy is prompting much correspondence in the newspapers, the majority favouring the retention of the old tree, and objecting to its cutting up the park.

ALLEGED MURDER.

Woman Brutally Killed.

A case in which a Chinese named Chan Sik-ling was charged with murdering a woman with whom he previously lived occupied His Honour Mr. Justice Gompertz at the Criminal Sessions to-day.

The Attorney General, the Hon. Mr. J. H. Kemp, K.C., conducted the case for the Crown and the Hon. Mr. H. E. Pollock, K.C., defended.

The Jury were: Messrs. R. B. Bristow (foreman), H. M. Xavier, C.T. Antonio, P. M. Xavier, W.K. Tsui, R. Taylor and W. Yuk-lun.

The Attorney General, opening the case, said that at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the 11th May a man who was sitting in a shop in Reclamation Street, Yaumati, heard a noise and on going outside saw a man striking a woman. The man ran away, the woman chasing him into a shop at 448, Reclamation Street. Another witness would be called to say that the woman ran into the shop and collapsed. She was bleeding from a wound in the face and died shortly after entering. The prisoner ran towards the back of the shop and the witness lost sight of him and came to the conclusion that he got away by the back lane.

Later in that evening about 7 o'clock—a man who lived in the shop went to a cubicle to get some clothes and saw someone lying under the bed. He went away and informed a district watchman, who entered the cubicle and found the prisoner. He was wearing a pair of trousers upon which were blood stains. A knife was found sticking in the woman's body—a curious triangular knife, something like a spear. At the Police Station prisoner asked for his clothes to be sent for. This was done and in one of the pockets was discovered a dagger similar in shape to the one found in the woman's body. Other evidence would be given to show that prisoner and the deceased woman formerly lived together as man and wife. They apparently had quarrels and she complained about prisoner's conduct. They separated, about the end of March and the woman went to live with another man. The Attorney General added that the jury might have some little difficulty in saying whether the man actually intended to kill the woman, but if they came to the conclusion that the wounds were inflicted by the prisoner, then it was their duty to find him guilty. At the Police Station, in answer to the charge, the prisoner said "I admit the charge."

Dr. Smalley, medical officer in charge at the Kowloon Hospital, gave evidence of the injuries the woman had received. She sustained seven wounds, two on the near side at the right thigh about three inches long, one at the lower part of the abdomen about two inches long, the fourth on the right side penetrating the liver and abdominal cavity, the fifth on the near side at the right breast penetrating the right lung, the sixth just below the mouth which ran directly inwards along the jaw for about three inches, then entering the mouth cavity and the seventh in the region of the right kidney. The abdominal cavity was full of blood. The wounds were all triangular and could have been caused by the dagger produced.

In cross-examination Dr. Smalley said he was not aware that the prisoner was an opium smoker.

Mr. Pollock put it to the doctor that assuming the man was a chronic opium smoker and was badly in want of opium he would become comatose.

Dr. Smalley: He would become irritable.

Dr. Smalley added he did not think there was any reason at all to presume that the man would become comatose after a long absence from chronic opium smoking. He had had a number of chronic opium patients in Hospital.

Dr. H. H. Scott, Government bacteriologist, spoke to finding blood stains on one pair of trousers produced. The dagger when brought to him had no blood stains upon it.

At one stage of the proceedings the Attorney General complained that a man had been seen talking in the passage outside the Court with one of the Crown witnesses.

His Lordship asked that he be brought into Court.

"I am informed by the learned Counsel that you have been speaking to a witness for the Crown," said His Lordship, when the man appeared before him.

The alleged offender denied speaking to a Crown witness. "I was speaking to some other people," he said, "when the police came up."

His Lordship: To whom were you speaking?—To a man who has just gone out.

What is his name?—I think his name is Wah.

His Lordship asked Mr. Pollock if the man before him was one of his witnesses.

Mr. Pollock said he saw the man yesterday afternoon, but he doubted whether he would call him as a witness.

His Lordship—I wish the police would bring in the witness for the Crown to whom this man was seen speaking.

The Crown witness in question was accordingly brought in and His Lordship asked him what it was the other had said to him.

The Crown witness replied that the man said: "How is it you have gone in and come out so quickly?" He said nothing else.

The Attorney General asked the Court to warn the offender and His Lordship said he had better keep away from Crown witnesses. If it had not been for the witness it would have been his duty to commit him to prison at once.

The case is proceeding.

TO-DAYS, MISCELLANY.

Few people are aware that G. F. Watts, R.A., the great Victorian artist, has left curious traces of his art in the pavilion of Lord's. It was not because Mr. Watts was interested in cricket so much as that he was always studying the human frame and its postures. So he sketched cricketers in various positions wielding a bat at the wicket. They are masterly little sketches, and show the variety of G. F. Watts' style.

Appropos the pearl culture story, a writer in a London journal states that the idea that the oyster produces pearls because a grain of sand has got into its shell has long ago been exploded. From its natural habitat, every pearl oyster must have thousands of grains of sand or other bodies lodged against its lips in each tide. Plainly, from the small percentage of pearl-bearing oysters, the pearl is a disease. Just as uric acid produces stone or gravel in humans, so does some similar irritant produce the pearl in the oyster.

Apparently the Japanese have discovered a way of artificially setting up this irritation. The only difference in the result seems to be that whereas the Japanese culture has a "core," the natural is throughout the same. Though one may remove the multitudinous skins of the real pearl until whittled down to nothing, it is impossible to discover in the centre anything differing from the pure composition of the pearl.

Between Ourselves

By Robt. MacWhirter.

I never was one to keep harping on the "I told you" string. It never gets ye anywhere any more. Being a prophet of the worst that's likely to happen is a what ye would call a popular pastime at any time. I aye notice that the foreteller o' good news is generally wise abint the hand while there's scores o' the other kind on ferry or tram to let ye know about the drop in exchange, the wet day it's going to be the morn or the rapid rise in rents next month. Realising that then, I'm no looking for anything out o' the ordinary when I merely remark in passing that the miner's ballot was just what I said it would be—and more's the pity in a way.

Reuter wi' his tongue in his cheek doesn't understand how it is that the miner can be so obstinate and how it is that they've deliberately thrown away a cumshie ten million pound bonus. What do they want? we can almost hear him say.

Mind ye, I never had much time for old Bob Smilie. He aye seemed to ruffle ye the wrong way. Folks that live before their time have that sort of way wi' them onyhow. But there was nothing bad or revolutionary behind his statement the other day when he said that "Even if the reduction had only been 6d. per day, the miners would not have accepted."

In my humble opinion Bob was merely stating a fact. The knowledge that they intend fighting for it, should make it this means they're compelled to Colony that it's something more than a question of wages that's involved in the present dispute.

Now it doesn't necessarily follow that that something is political. What is it then? Put plainly it simply amounts to this: that the miner refuses the offer of a bribe, for he considers it canna be onyway deal wi' the fundamental cause of the present strike.

For the Government to give a subsidy in order to lessen the blow over a few months in the matter of wages reduction is just like putting a nice oatmeal plaster on a cancer. The ten million pound plaster would have only postponed for four months the irritation offered by the coalowners last March. Patching at this business will do no longer.

The history of disputes in the coalfields has simply been a succession of strikes and lock-outs mostly caused by the difference in wages as between district and district. The miners say, rightly or wrongly, if there is ever to be peace and the coal industry established as a real going concern, wages and conditions must be treated as one all over the country. They're tired of one place being played off against another. The one obstacle is the uncompromising attitude of the coal owners. Simply because they have put their foot down on a National Wages Board, the Government has done likewise. If the sellseams folks at Whitehall would only publish all its interviews wi' the owners we would then be in a position to judge whether the coalowners or the miners have dictated to the Government and held up the country to ransom. I blame the coal-owners for the whole business.

The miners want a lasting settlement this time and it'll have to be got. Starving them into submission won't do. If by very plain to everybody in this accept district settlements—and even though the strike is nearly three months old, if I know the spirit of the men aight it will be some time before that happens yet—it will only mean a temporary settlement, wi' a fight again later on.

It looks as if it's going to be a proper "red" up" this time. Better that it should be so and finishd wi'.

POLICE DRIVER
SUMMONED.STRING OF CARS KEPT
BACK ON REPULSE
BAY ROAD.MR. H. A. LAMMERT
TAKES ACTION.

In Mr. R. E. Lindell's Court this morning, the driver of Police car No. 11 was prosecuted at the instance of Mr. H. A. Lammert for obstruction on the road to Repulse Bay on the night of the 11th instant.

Mr. T. H. King, the acting D.S.P., said he took the responsibility in this case from the driver entirely. He proposed later on to go into the details of the case.

The driver said he did not know he caused any obstruction to passing cars. He was going at 20 miles an hour with Mr. King in the car.

The Magistrate. If the other car wanted to pass you it would have to go 25 miles an hour?—Yes.

Mr. H. A. Lammert said: On Saturday, the 11th instant, I was going to Repulse Bay at 8.15 p.m. driving my car 371. While approaching Aberdeen Dock I saw lights of two or three cars preceding me. After going through Aberdeen village I caught up with the hindmost car. I did not take note of the number. I sounded my hooter in order to pass the car. I noticed all the cars ahead were going at a slow speed. I came to the conclusion that they were evidently a party and wished to keep together. The last car in the string gave way and allowed me to pass. Then I came up to the leading car. Thinking that he did not hear my signal, I signalled again. The driver of the car took no notice of my Klaxon. This car got into the middle of the road. I sounded the Klaxon rapidly and still the car took no notice. Mr. King turned round and looked in my direction. The driver of this car forced me to go into second gear. According to Police regulations he did not keep to the left of the road. I came to the conclusion that Mr. King was determined I should not pass. After Deep Water Bay, on the rise at the corner, I thought I might try again but the driver bore out to the right, giving me room on the left which I would not take. Going up the incline to Repulse Bay I did not want to keep on his heels. At the bottom of the Repulse Bay Hotel most cars go on top gear but I changed to second and even then I caught up to No. 11 car. He almost forced me into low gear. That is all. I do not know what Mr. King's idea was. It was want of courtesy. My car is a Buick five-seater. I consider I was travelling at less than fifteen miles when I was trying to pass the car. Mr. King's speed must have been fifteen miles. I was driving myself. My driver bent down and looked at the speedometer and said the speed was 13 miles. This was along the straight just where the Peruvian Consul's car was smashed.

Mr. King:—Approaching Aberdeen Docks you said we were travelling at a slow speed. This is within the Control?—Yes.

After leaving Aberdeen what speed would you estimate the car was travelling at?—It is hard to know at night.

What speed were you travelling?—I reckon I was going twenty miles.

You say I turned round. Travelling at night, if you turn round when a car is coming you see nothing but a blaze?—You can see the lights.

There is nothing personal in this?—Oh no. I always thought very highly of you.

What was your speed when you passed the brick works?—The same as yours.

Within 17 or 15 miles?—It remains to prove whether your speedometer was correct.

When you got to the bottom of the hill at the Golf Club did you think you had an opportunity to pass. You said car No. 11 was going to the left a bit. I put it to you that you could pass? I could have passed. It may have been a trap.

Coming up the hill just behind the control signal leading to the Golf Club there are two or three wide extensions. Could you have passed then?—I could have passed on the left side. I could not pass on the right as I was afraid of the embankment.

I put it to you that you could have passed?—It is not a nice road to pass. After the control there are one or two nasty corners.

You said you tried to pass. I put it to you that you did not want to pass?—You did not allow me to pass.

After you got past the crossing at Aberdeen what did you assume was the maximum speed of the car behind Car No. 11?—I do not think it touched fifteen miles.

What do you consider to be reasonable time to drive from the University to Repulse Bay Hotel?—25 minutes.

It is not unusual on Saturday nights to find a string of cars, say, three or four cars?—It is very unusual to see a string of ten cars.

Mr. King remarked that it proved the cars must have been going at a slow speed.

When you got to the Repulse Bay Hotel did you count the cars behind?—I did not.

Did you notice the Hotel clock when you went in?—No.

You had to get into second gear at Deep Water Bay going to the Hotel?—Yes.

Mr. King gave evidence saying on the night of the 11th instant he was going to Repulse Bay and was seated in the front seat. He had a wrist watch and the speedometer was close to him with a good light.

The car stopped at the University to pick up a passenger. He left the University at 7.30 by his watch. The car stopped at the Repulse Bay Hotel at 8.33. Before reaching Pokfulam the driver had to put his wind screen horizontal owing to the lights of cars from behind.

He started going down Dairy Farm hill on top. Witness told him to go slow and the driver went into second. Beyond Aberdeen on the first causeway the road is not good and the speedometer registered there 15 miles. Witness heard cars behind. There was a clearance of two to three feet only on the left of the car from the edge of the causeway. No car passed him. At the second straight the speed quickened up to 13 miles. The car entered the control at the Paper Mills. The control speed was ten miles. The car entered that control at 15 to 17 miles on top gear. Witness asked the driver to slow. At Deep Water Bay witness asked the driver to keep to the left. The car went through Deep Water Bay at 15 to 17 miles. It was in the Police control. There was an absolutely clear road. The Klaxon horn was being sounded five or six times. Beyond the straight and at the end of the control the driver changed gear, and the speed dropped to ten. He was not in the middle of the road. The car picked up and took the hill at 15 miles per hour. The road is widened there and the car behind could have passed the Police car easily. At no part of the road could a car have passed on the left hand side. At the Hotel approach the driver changed to second gear and stopped at the second doorway.

Mr. Lammert contended that when a driver, who had been on the middle of the road, swerved it was an invitation for a coming car to pass.

Mr. King said the signal should be a wave of the hand.

Mr. Lammert said that the chauffeurs of all cars were frightened to pass a Police car. They in fact seldom passed a Police car. He desired that to stop.

The Magistrate said the whole thing hinged on the speed.

Mr. Lammert to Mr. King: Did you pass any car on the road?—No, I do not recollect passing any cars.

Did you have your speedometer checked? Will you swear that your speedometer registered fifteen or seventeen miles?—The speedometer has not been tested, but it is in good working order.

Jumma Khan, the driver of car No. 11, said that he had had his licence two years and had never had an accident on the road. When he got out of the control beyond Aberdeen his speed was 17 to 18 miles. He was driving under the instructions of Mr. King. He was not all the time in the middle of the road. On his right there was enough room for a car to pass. He did not remember passing any car going to Repulse Bay.

Mr. Lammert: You say that after Aberdeen you were driving on the left side of the road?—I was more on the left than on the right.

The Magistrate remarked that he knew that the road was bad after the first crossing.

Mr. Lammert: Why did you not, when I blew my horn, go to the left and let me pass?—I did give room.

Did you signal to me with your hand to pass?—Yes, I sounded my horn and signalled with my hand.

Mr. Lammert maintained that the signal with the hand was never given.

The Magistrate: The whole matter is the speed.

Mr. Lammert: And the hold-up? There were four cars from Aberdeen and nine or ten cars behind me. The congestion happened along that road.

Mr. King: There is no evidence that there were nine or ten cars. There were four or five.

The Magistrate: The whole question is whether the car was going at a slow speed.

Mr. Lammert: If Mr. King's evidence is a washout—

Mr. King: Why should my evidence be taken as a washout.

Mr. Lammert: Why should my evidence be taken as a washout?

After a protracted discussion it was argued that the hearing be postponed to enable the speedometer of car No. 11 to be tested.

"Just cleared it!" Ever watch a real jumper going over? Just before he clears you're certain he won't do it. Then a kick and a twist and he flattens out—never touched! The Rieseler brothers, two of Germany's foremost aeroplane constructors, have built what is believed to be the smallest aeroplane ever constructed for general use. It is designed for pleasure flying. It has a wing spread of five metres and weighs a trifle over 300 pounds. The wing spread is no wider than the arm spread of four men, as the photo shows. The machine can travel 120 miles an hour and is driven by a twenty-eight horsepower motor of two air-cooled cylinders.

Remarkable ingenuity has been used in fitting up the interior with every possible comfort taking up little space at the same time.

BEES INVADE PUBLIC-HOUSE!

A swarm of bees, which found their way through an aperture in the wall of a public-house at High Wycombe, and massed themselves under the bedroom floor, has been driven by Mr. J. Neighbour, bee expert to Bucks County Council.

This model is a tulle suit made of mandalay crepe in a pale pink shade. It is made with a short boxy coat which is longer in the back and shorter in the front. A black satin tie finishes the collar and forms the fastening. The skirt to conform with the jacket has merely the effect of being shorter in the front. This is done by a novel box pleat which is shorter than the skirt itself and is bound in black.

Here is a very youthful and pretty little frock for summer wear. The material is a jade green, cotton crepe. The skirt is plain, but the blouse is long-waisted and full, giving the effect of a box coat. With it is worn a gray chiffon guimpe with tiny sleeves. A black tie and black ornaments at the waist form a pretty trimming contrast.

CHINESE RAILWAYS AND ROADS.

The Hunanese Railway Association has petitioned the Government for the administration of the section of the Canton-Hankow line which is being commenced between Chuchow and Hengchow. The Peking-Railway Administration proposes the expansion of the Nankow Works. Now that the line to Su-yuan has been completed, repairing shops for locomotives, wagons, and carriages, electricity power house, machine shops, and stores will be enlarged to meet the increased needs of the railway. The establishment of similar works at Tientsin and Su-yuan and warehouses at various other points is also under consideration. All the roads have been finished at Nantunghow except the Yu Si and Pailu roads.

EXPERIMENTAL SERICULTURE.

Since the union of the Nanjing branch of the International Committee for the Improvement of Sericulture in China and the Department of Sericulture, College of Agriculture, National Southeastern University, remarkable progress has been made. A piece of ground covering an area of 200 mow has just been brought by the Committee for the purpose of establishing a sericulture experimental station. It is planned to construct a number of sericulture halls both for research and for experimentation, and to plant domestic and foreign varieties of mulberry nursery trees. The aim is to make the Station an ideal home for silkworms and mulberry trees and model sericulture farms. In the near future, the area of the land will be further extended.

COTTON IMPROVEMENT.

The laying out of cotton experimental stations in the provinces of China is proceeding. The station in Kiangsu covers an area of 480 mow and further expansion is expected in the autumn. At Chenchow, Honan, a piece of ground covering 230 mow is devoted to this purpose. Mr. Sun En-lung M.A. is to undertake an investigation later in the year in connection with the movement, and, if necessary, he will give demonstrations on modern cultivation and fertilization methods. The number of Cotton-growing Experimental Stations in Chihli is to be increased to ten. They will be laid out in the following localities: Yenkingchow, Kingchow, Kinchow, W. Ninghsien, Fengjun, Lwanchow, Tsangchow, Tinghsing, Kucheng and Tsung-hwachow.

SHIPPING NEWS.*CAPT. H. BATHURST.

Captain H. Bathurst, who has been at Amoy for the last nineteen years, fulfilling the duties of harbour pilot, and marine and emigration surveyor to the British Government, has said goodbye to the China Coast, which has known him for nearly forty years.

BRITISH MAILS.The recent statement that British mails may soon be coming to the Far East by way of the trans-Siberian railway should be received with more than a little scepticism. Any thing of value should most certainly be sent by way of Suez or America.—*Shipping and Engineering.C.M.S.S. CO'S PRIVILEGE.

A message from San Francisco states that because U.S. vessels cannot handle all of the passenger business between Honolulu and San Francisco, the Government has granted the China Mail Steamship Company permission to have the next three of its east-bound Pacific liners stop at the islands to pick up passengers bound for the United States. (Under the Jones merchant marine law, only vessels of companies three-fourths of whose stockholders are Americans are permitted to carry passengers and freight between American ports.)

ALLOCATING PROFITS.

A report from Yokohama quotes an official of the Department of Communications as saying in regard to the present unemployment among Japanese shipping men: "In England even the strongest company does not pay a dividend of more than 10 per cent. (?) in times of prosperity. In Japan some companies paid dividends of 30, 70 and even 100 per cent, when their foundations had not yet been made sufficiently strong. At the coming of the depression, they immediately tie up their ships, and as to the means of relieving the difficulties due to unemployment, they simply look to the Government. This attitude is very irresponsible." A few British companies have contrived to distribute over 10 per cent, in recent years.

SHIPPING BOARD DEFICIENCY.

The U. S. Senate has adopted the deficiency appropriations of $75,000,000 for the United States Shipping Board, after Senator William S. Keaton of Iowa and other Senators had charged the Board with gross extravagance, waste and inefficiency, and also adopted the amendment directing the sale of all wooden ships before October. Senator Keaton said he estimated that the Government were losing from half to one million dollars a day. Senator Miles Poindexter, of Washington, proposed the abolition of the Shipping Board, and said that he was in favour of the appointment of a director "to liquidate the whole business." Senator William H. King, of Utah, has charged the Managers of the U.S. Shipping Board with incompetence in opposing the sale of the Government owned ships, because the result would be the losing of their jobs. He declared that three billions of dollars have been spent for worthless vessels.

OIL OR COAL?

Fuel oil has helped to "carry on" not only in shipping, but in many other industries, and out of the evil of the coal strike has come the good of the bestowal of increasing attention on the fuel of the future. The Anglo-American Oil Co., Ltd., the first great undertaking to handle the distribution of oil in the United Kingdom, has issued a handbook, "Oil Fuel," which states that the Co. has devoted the most thorough investigation to the most suitable grades of petroleum which will meet the demands of consumers of fuel oil. It has watched and anticipated the development of oil power with a view to strengthening the research work of the engineer, by placing at his disposal fuel oil of a character which will aid him in achieving the finest results. Ample evidence of the headway made is to be seen in the installation of oil-burners in the most famous of the Transatlantic greyhounds, and the adoption of the late Lord Fisher's oil policy is no longer confined to the Navy, but will shortly be a fact as regards merchant shipping. "The passing of another milestone on the great highway of progress is to be seen in the more general adoption of the internal combustion engine for power production. The great economies obtainable by the use of the Diesel engine have led to the output of many types of this famous engine and to its world wide use for various purposes apart from marine installations."
